

PIPS - PREGNANCY INFANCY PARENTING SUPPORT
ANNUAL REPORT

2022 - 2023

Our Vision

Individuals and families that are empowered and well supported during pregnancy and the early childhood years.

To work collaboratively with other organisations to enhance each other's work.

Our Mission

To provide free, non-judgmental, whānau centred practical and emotional support during pregnancy and early parenting.

Hello

A joint letter from our Manager and Board Chair

This year, a joint message from us seemed appropriate to demonstrate our shared pride in the huge amount of work that the PIPS staff, Trust Board, volunteers and supporters have done together over the past 12 months.

Having emerged strong from the COVID-19 pandemic, increases in the cost of living and the different pressures that this has placed on many families, has seen PIPS rise to yet another challenge – a rapid increase in client numbers and need for our services. While accommodating this increased demand has required an incredible amount of dedication from everyone, extra special thanks is owed to Emma and Jess for their continued passion, support and contributions. PIPS' growing volunteer base and attendance at our Bumps + Bubs and other programs are the direct result of their hard work and we are incredibly thankful for the care and kindness that they show our community every day.

There's no doubt that it's been a very busy year at PIPS. Client contacts have nearly doubled since the last annual report, from 2,999 to 5,728, with over 68,000 maternity and essential baby items having been gifted to families and our volunteers giving us over 1,400 hours of their precious time. We've also been offering our services over the past year with sustainability in mind - ensuring that we are good stewards of our resources and can endure long into the future, and making sure that we do our bit to protect the environment. In that respect, we've been fortunate to benefit from several grants over the course of the last year that have allowed us to reach even more families and we've prevented over nine tonnes of clothing and equipment from going into landfill.

Other successes to celebrate this year include a one-year funding contract with Te Whatu Ora – Waitaha Canterbury that enabled us to establish a new breastfeeding support programme, NIPS@PIPS, and our selection to implement a Manuka Baby Bed trial. PIPS is a strong advocate for Safe Sleep devices and these are a sustainable option that we hope to see made more available in the community.

We're thrilled to have welcomed two new members to the Trust Board this year – April Hussey and Emma Grace Talbot. They come to us with plenty of energy and a real passion for the work that PIPS do. We've also welcomed several new volunteers and been grateful to grow the number of businesses, organisations and individuals who support our work financially and through in-kind support. We wouldn't be able to do what we do without their passion and belief that together we can make a collective impact in our community. Thank you for helping us to create brighter futures for whānau.

In recognition of the evolving makeup of our PIPS whānau, wider community, and our services, PIPS staff and the Board have been working together over recent months to refresh our vision, mission and values. Being able to connect as a group and spend time envisioning what we want PIPS to look and feel like in the future has been a real privilege and we hope to be able to share the results of all that collaboration with our community soon.

Another thing we share as Manager and Chair is excitement for the future, especially our plans for the next 12 months that will help us build on our current momentum and be more active in sharing our story.

From the both of us, it's been a pleasure to lead and support the work of PIPS this year and we look forward to the year ahead.

Our Why

Creating brighter beginnings for every whānau

PIPS firmly believes that every whānau deserves to be well supported and have the essentials they need for their baby to thrive. Unfortunately, New Zealand faces one of the highest child poverty rates among Western nations, affecting 1 in 7 young Kiwis.

For many of us, having suitable clothing, shoes, coats, and pyjamas is taken for granted. However, due to the rising cost of living, these basic necessities are rapidly becoming unattainable luxuries for many families supported by PIPS. We aim to fill that gap, supporting whānau with essentials for their baby and creating brighter beginnings for whānau across Canterbury.

Preventing Parental Stress

Entering parenthood can be an exciting and joyful time. For some families, without the right support and resources, this can bring parental stress. The stress experienced by many families coming to PIPS is high, because they don't have the resources to meet the demands of safely caring for their baby. Our work focuses on relieving this stress, both financially and emotionally, while increasing confidence so all parents feel empowered on their parenting journey.

Our groups provide a space to up-skill in first aid and receive breastfeeding support, while helping to break the social isolation many new parents experience. Our weekly Bumps + Bubs group provides an opportunity for parents to build new friendships, enhance wellbeing, venture out on their own and access resources and education on various topics.

Reducing Financial Stress

Welcoming a new baby into the world comes with a significant cost. For families with limited resources, it often results in having to make challenging choices, like deciding between buying essential baby items such as a safe place for baby to sleep versus covering regular household bills.

We offer families the opportunity to 'shop' with dignity for items such as maternity and essential baby gear, at no-cost. This support helps to ease the burden on their budgets, ensuring more funds are available for essentials such as food, heating and other daily living expenses. At the same time, families are able to retain their dignity by selecting their own items as if they were shopping for their little one/s at any other store.

Diverting items from landfill into the arms of families who need them

Through the collection of gently used baby gear, equipment and clothing, we have prevented over 9 tonnes of potential waste from entering landfill sites across Canterbury. That's roughly 9 cows or 18 grand pianos in weight – a LOT of waste! We love that we can provide wrap-around support to whānau in our community, while also having a positive impact on the environment.

“PIPS has been an absolutely amazing resource hub. The lovely team is kind and supportive. They really help me to not feel so alone being a new mum, without any family or social support, with extreme financial struggles. They helped with baby items from bedding to clothing and were just there as another mum to talk to on good or hard days. I'm truly grateful for all their wonderful support they have given me and my baby”.

“As a new Board member, what's struck me most about PIPS is the huge variety of services offered and just how many people PIPS supports with its limited resources. The Board and staff have been so genuine and welcoming since I joined - it's easy to see why people feel at home when they visit and why PIPS holds such a special place in the heart of so many families”

Our Impact: Our Community

1,114 Families supported

This year, we saw an unprecedented increase in the demand for our services, with double the number of whānau accessing our support compared to last year.

Many of these families came to PIPS feeling anxious and overwhelmed, as they struggled to afford maternity and essential baby items such as cots, prams, car seats, clothing, breast pumps and more.

Thanks to the kindness and generosity of our community, we were able to respond quickly to this increase in demand. Our community came together to regularly donate their gently used maternity and baby gear, so we could connect these items with whānau who needed them most.

Not only did these practical items provide much needed support, ensuring a safe and happy start to life, but they also helped to empower under-resourced whānau, show them that they're not alone, and support them on their parenting journey.

“Having the support from PIPS made things much better for us and actually the referrals and support I received from PIPS helped us find accommodation. The items they provided have given myself, my young daughter and my unborn baby, happy opportunities we wouldn't otherwise have had. Thank you so much”.

Nicky* - A PIPS Parent

Impact story from PIPS parent

“PIPS staff and the service, and items they have assisted me and my whānau with, have been invaluable at the hardest time of my life. We were experiencing homelessness after escaping a domestic violence situation and serious financial hardship due to our circumstances. Having the support from PIPS made things much better for us and actually the referrals and support I received from PIPS helped us find accommodation. The items they provided have given myself, my young daughter and my unborn baby, happy opportunities we wouldn't otherwise have had. Thank you so much. We look forward to continuing to engage with a community of mothers for breastfeeding and parenting support, we are so very grateful!”

Nicky* had engaged with PIPS after fleeing another town with her young daughter, escaping domestic violence. She had recently also found out she was pregnant and unsure what she would do. She was living in a small campervan with her daughter, due to financial hardship and not being able to afford accommodation (not ideal in the middle of winter!). A PIPS staff member sat with Nicky and talked through some options and referral paths. We provided a hot cuppa, some kai and a safe place to be as we helped her work through her next steps, all while her toddler had a nap on our couch. Our team made a few calls and spoke with a Support Worker at The Loft, getting Nicky an appointment straight away to discuss housing, accessing some financial support and link with domestic violence support through AVIVA. She left PIPS with some clothing and toys for herself and daughter and we encouraged her to come back for more support, or just to have a chat.

While Nicky hasn't been back to see us yet, we've heard through other service providers that she is doing really well and is very grateful for the support she received at PIPS. We are hoping she'll be back to see us soon!

Our Impact: Our Planet

Creating a positive environmental impact

At PIPS, we are committed to embracing sustainability across our work and having a positive impact that extends far beyond our little corner of the world. Since the very beginning, our work has been in line with the principles of a circular economy. Our goal is to minimise waste by promoting the sharing, repairing and repurposing of existing resources, and connecting those items with those who need them most.

The cycle of collecting and connecting pre-loved baby essentials provides a positive impact that extends to everyone involved. The community is able to pass on items they no longer need, rather than sending these to landfill. We provide a second chance for those items to be valued and loved. Families receiving these items are shown that others care about them and their children, and are reminded they are not alone. This way of working not only supports families in a financial and socially responsible way, it helps to create a more sustainable future for our children.

Sustainable Development Goals

The 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), are an urgent call for action by all countries - developed and developing – in global partnership. They recognise that ending poverty and other deprivations must go hand-in-hand with strategies that improve health and education, reduce inequality, and spur economic growth – all while tackling climate change and working to preserve our oceans and forests.

A Special Thanks To

Our amazing Cuppa Club supporters and regular financial donors.

All the incredible crafters and groups who support us with their knitting, crocheting and sewing.

Our volunteers, who give so much of their time, we couldn't do this without you!

Supporter Stories

Christchurch Girls' High + Noopii

Towards the end of last year, a group of Year 10 students and teachers from Christchurch Girls' High undertook a class project to support PIPS as their chosen charity. The girls spent time planning bake sales, making gifts, collecting baby items and contacting businesses to gather resources to donate to PIPS whānau. This resulted in clothing, giftware, vouchers, and baby gear being donated plus a gift of thousands of nappies generously donated by the team at Noopii, our largest donation of essential goods ever!

The Concord Lodge No.39 Freemasons New Zealand

The men and families from The Concord Lodge No.39 have been an amazing support for PIPS over the past year. They have fundraised for us, provided warm baby clothes for winter and brand new car seats to ensure families in need could safely transport their little ones. Their support has meant we could provide essentials for hundreds of families, ensuring every baby had a bright beginning.

CommonKind

Having access to warm, woollen blankets means whānau can safely put their babies to bed knowing they are going to be warm all night long. We were incredibly grateful to receive support from CommonKind this year, who welcomed PIPS as a community partner. This partnership ensures we receive beautiful heirloom quality blankets to share with whānau in our community.

Regular Donors

PIPS is very grateful to have a small but dedicated group of donors, who make regular financial donations to support our work. These donations allow us to say yes more often, when families need us. They come from generous individuals and small businesses, like Beach Boutique Reloveable in New Brighton, who donate a portion of monthly sales to us. Regular donations can be of any amount and make a big impact on the work we do!

Wilderness Motorhomes New Zealand

Earlier in the year, we received a call from Wilderness Motorhomes New Zealand. They were updating some stock of their hire car seats and had a lot to gift to PIPS! Gifts from businesses like this, mean we can clear our waitlists at a time when demand continues to grow.

Good Bitches Baking

Our friends at Good Bitches Baking deliver baking each week to both our Bumps + Bubs and NIPS@PIPS groups. The ever-changing sweet array of baking provides a weekly treat for parents attending our groups and ensures we have something delicious for parents to enjoy over a hot cuppa!

Community Feedback

Whānau

“What you’re doing is absolutely amazing! Christchurch is so lucky to have PIPS and your shop to help those families, parents and mothers who are struggling, especially as everything is becoming more expensive. I am so grateful to my midwife for introducing PIPS to me. I had a very good experience with your team and I look forward to coming back again. Keep up the good work and your kindness is appreciated. Many, many thanks!”.

- A PIPS Parent

“I really value the way the PIPS team are so friendly and make their space welcoming and non-judgemental for everyone. We all struggle and need help now and then, so to receive that and not feel ashamed when asking for help was immensely appreciated”.

Community Feedback

Whānau Support Workers

“PIPS is such an outstanding service for our community. Every time I visit, either by myself or with whānau, the team are always so friendly and helpful and really go above and beyond! The PIPS space is always presented so beautifully and the display of clothing and toys makes it easy to find items and come across some wonderful treasures!

Ka mau te wehi PIPS, you serve our community wonderfully!”

Laura, Whānau Āwhina | Family Support Worker | Early Start Project

“As a Social Worker working as part of the Young Parents Development Service, we work with a lot of vulnerable young parents who lack financial resources or wider family support. We see a high and growing need for help in this time of increasing cost of living. We frequently refer the families we work with to PIPS, for assistance with basic items for their babies, as we really value and appreciate the responsive and non-judgemental approach of staff and volunteers to requests for help. PIPS plays an invaluable role in our community!”

Our Volunteers

Nā tō rourou, nā taku rourou ka ora ai te iwi

With your food basket and my food basket the people will thrive

Our PIPS volunteers are people of all ages who come from diverse backgrounds and lived experiences. Through each volunteer's unique world view, set of skills and, above all, aroha, we are able to continue the mahi we do daily, see the needs of whānau are met and see our pēpi thrive.

This year, our sorters, client service support, child restraint technicians, knitters, board members, donation point hosts, handyman, washers and sewers collectively gave over 1,400 hours of their time to support our work.

As our client numbers have increased this year, and with the circumstances of our families becoming more diverse and unique, our volunteers' time has been essential to ensure that our centre runs smoothly. They 'take the wheel' when needed so that we are able to focus our attention completely on our clients' needs.

Our on-site volunteer team tackle tasks with a smile, sorting clothing, toys and equipment that have come through our doors, cleaning items and checking them for safety, replenishing our little shop front and keeping our space warm and inviting! While our volunteer child restraint technicians ensure our clients have a secure car seat, safe for transporting their little one. Off-site, our fabulous washers and sewers have been busy making sure that items we pass on are in excellent and safe condition for another family's use.

Our donation point volunteers generously give up space in their home (or garage!) to collect donations that are then delivered to PIPS HQ! We also have wonderful admin volunteers who help us with our ever-growing pile of paperwork and our own handyman extraordinaire, who kindly fixes and checks equipment off-site!

We are so very grateful for the richness that each volunteer adds to the PIPS team. We couldn't do it without them!

Volunteer Stories

Vicki – PIPS volunteer

“Volunteering is a wonderful way to give to communities and whānau who need a little extra help. There are so many ways to volunteer. And it doesn’t matter what age you are, whether you also work, have a family, or a disability like me. There is zero judgment at PIPS and everyone is welcome, even if you just need someone to hold your baby so you can have a cuppa and chat, PIPS welcomes you with open arms and it’s a very rewarding place to volunteer, knowing that you are helping whānau to flourish”.

Baby on the Move

Baby on the Move - Christchurch North began donating their time at PIPS last year. They generously send one of their team along each fortnight to help with car seat installs and checks. The team has also regularly provided PIPS with items and equipment for whānau within our community.

Corporate volunteering - Jade Software

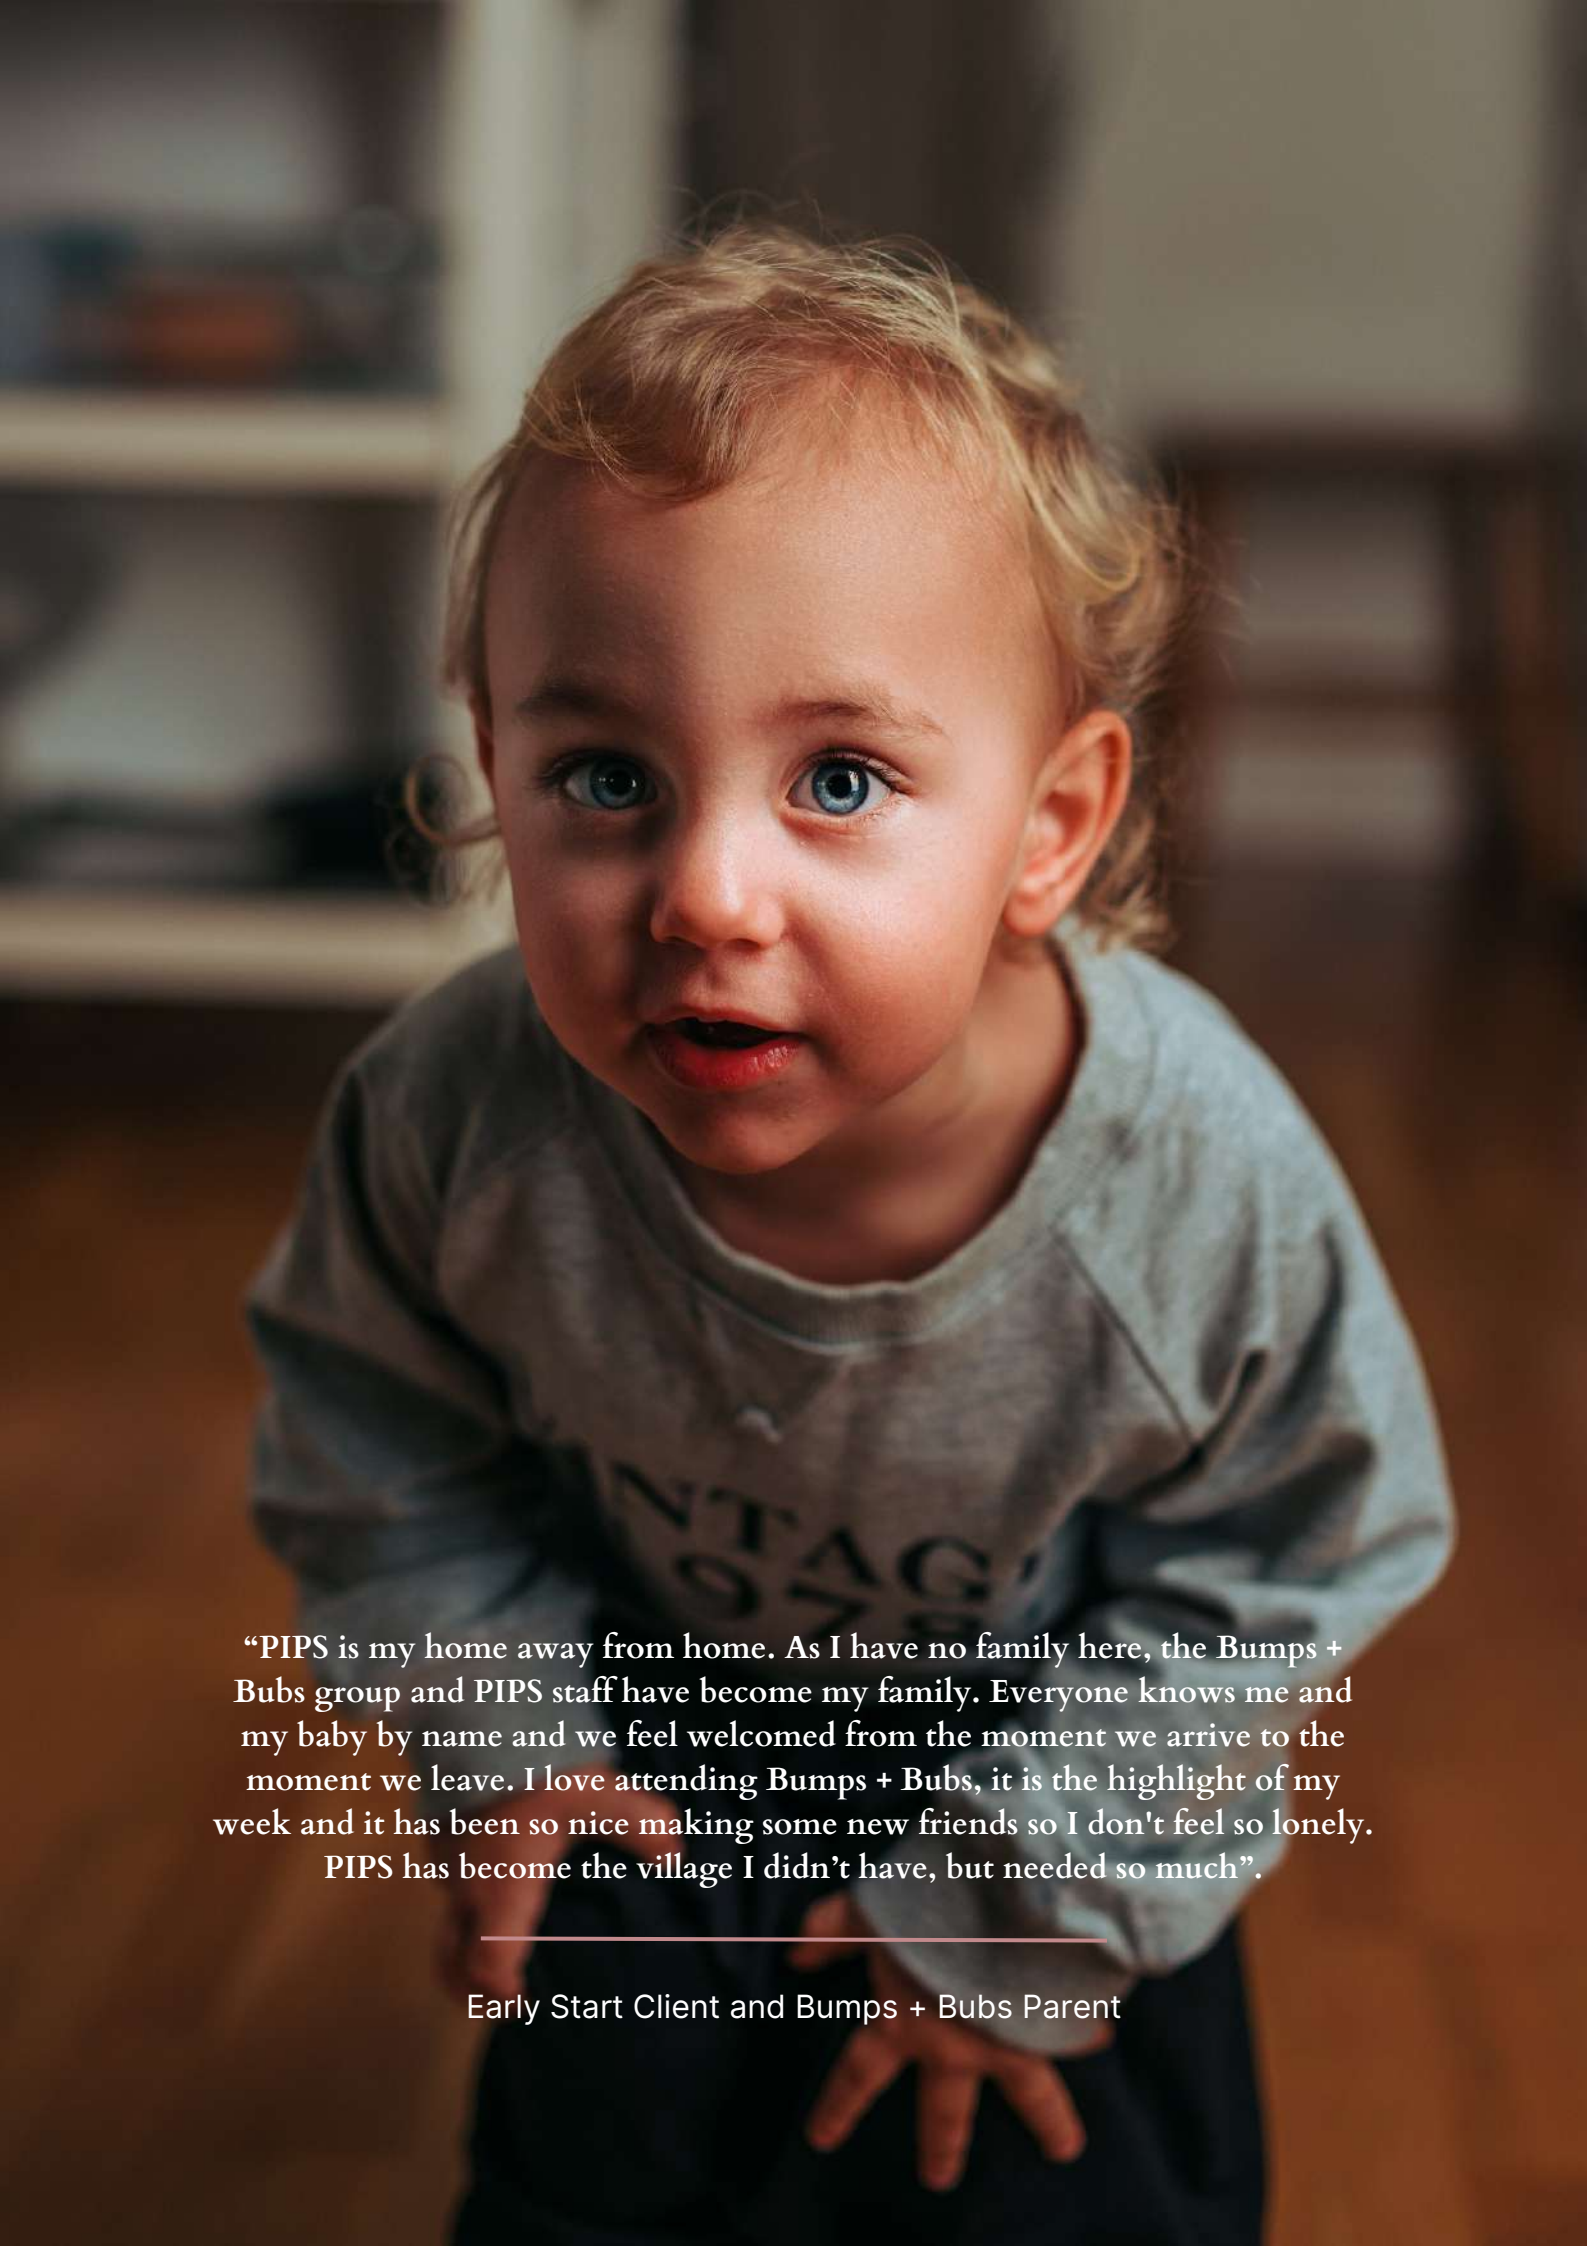

Last year we welcomed our first corporate volunteer team, from Jade Software. The Jade team came in and helped to clean and assemble equipment, sort clothing and prepare cloth nappies ready to pass on to whānau. It was wonderful to have the support of a local business team, donating their time to support a local charity like PIPS! Corporate volunteering is an area the PIPS team would love to offer more regularly over the coming year.

Christ’s College Volunteer Day

We had the pleasure of hosting a group of Year 10 boys and teachers from Christ's College, Canterbury who generously donated their time to volunteer with us. The boys got stuck into some nappy sorting, present wrapping, clothes sizing and sheet folding, helping our team immensely. We had a lot of laughs and fun in the process! Highlights were certainly seeing the boys tackle wrapping a baby, working out the domes on a onesie and discussing who was the heaviest baby at birth!

“PIPS is my home away from home. As I have no family here, the Bumps + Bubs group and PIPS staff have become my family. Everyone knows me and my baby by name and we feel welcomed from the moment we arrive to the moment we leave. I love attending Bumps + Bubs, it is the highlight of my week and it has been so nice making some new friends so I don't feel so lonely. PIPS has become the village I didn't have, but needed so much”.

Early Start Client and Bumps + Bubs Parent

Bumps + Bubs

Bumps + Bubs attendance has remained strong over the last year, with an average of 10-15 parents and their little ones coming along each week. Most of the group attend regularly and we love to see new faces joining the group every few weeks. We often hear that the Bumps + Bubs group is the highlight of our parents' week - a chance to get out and meet other parents and learn and create together in a supportive welcoming environment.

Everyone who attends is always excited to see what delicious baking has been supplied by Good Bitches Baking. With an always changing assortment of delicious cakes, biscuits and slices, they're all perfect for enjoying with a hot cuppa.

Our team have all enjoyed putting on special events for our Bumps + Bubs clients this year. This has included a PIPS Teddy Bears Picnic at Hagley Park, our Christmas Party at Avebury House, complete with Play Ari's soft play area, Christmas themed food and presents for everyone, and our Mother's Day event where we celebrated all the wonderful mums that visit PIPS with flower crown creations, a delicious hot lunch and spot prizes.

At PIPS HQ in Wainoni, we have also had many wonderful guest speakers, all sharing their knowledge and special skills with our group. Some highlights this year included an open and honest discussion about the postpartum period with Jessie from Dew Drops Postpartum, and our Cloth Nappy session where we were able to send 15 parents home with a cloth nappy starter kit.

Jess

Programme Coordinator

Mother's Day Event

This year we held our Mother's Day event off-site at the North Beach Surf Life Saving Club in North New Brighton. It provided a beautiful backdrop for us to celebrate our Bumps + Bubs mums for Mother's Day.

The PIPS team provided some warming soup and delicious baking, including sweets provided by our friends at Good Bitches Baking.

We spent the afternoon crafting flower crowns and having a mini photo session with our mums and bubs.

It was a special afternoon and a wonderful way to ensure these mothers were celebrated!

Our Impact: Programmes

NIPS@PIPS

Thanks to a funding grant from Te Whatu Ora – Waitaha Canterbury, PIPS was able to launch our first breastfeeding support group, NIPS@PIPS. The group began as a fortnightly support group but was quickly expanded to run weekly. The group was coordinated by the PIPS team and attended by Lisa from Beyond Birth Support, a local midwife, doula and lactation consultant. We had over 50 women and partners attend this group and gain valuable support from Lisa on their breastfeeding journey.

Manuka Beds

PIPS was chosen by Te Whatu Ora – Waitaha Canterbury to undertake a trial of a more sustainable safe sleep device for babies. This involved PIPS stocking Manuka Baby Beds, for whānau to loan at no cost. The Manuka Baby Beds provide a protected, safe sleep space for babies, close to whānau. They have been a popular choice for many new whānau, wishing to bed-share with their baby.

Car seat clinic

This year our fortnightly car seat clinic became a weekly event, with support from the Baby on the Move - Christchurch North team. We were lucky to have one of their team attend the sessions fortnightly, with our wonderful volunteer Donna continuing to help on the alternate fortnight (in between her work with Plunket!). It truly was a team effort!

During the year, we were able to assist over 100 whānau with their seat installs, completed by qualified child restraint technicians, at no-cost. This ensured that over 100 whānau can now transport their little ones safely in the car and benefit from all the confidence and socialisation that being able to be out and about brings.

First Aid

We continued our partnership with the New Zealand Red Cross, to deliver free Infant and Child Choking & CPR courses. This resulted in 101 parents being up-skilled in how to deal with a situation involving choking or a CPR emergency with an infant and young child. Participants got to practice on Red Cross mannequins and received a certificate of participation.

Ways to Support PIPS

Donate Funds, Donate Goods, Donate Your Time

Donate Funds

Donations from individuals can be made at any time, through our website. These contributions play a vital role in covering our operational and service delivery expenses, ensuring we can consistently provide support for pregnant women and their whānau.

Our 'Cuppa Club' program offers the opportunity for regular monthly donations and represents one of the most impactful ways to support whānau and babies in need. Becoming a regular donor provides us with a steady and regular income, enabling us to make an on-going impact.

Another meaningful way to support PIPS is by leaving a gift in your will. Such a gift is extraordinary and enduring, leaving a lasting impact for future generations.

Donate Time

The opportunities to work with us are endless. From individual volunteering to working with corporate teams, we value every offer of support and provide a wide range of volunteer opportunities.

Donate Goods

We gratefully accept donations of new or gently-used maternity and essential baby items, including cots, prams, car seats, clothing (0-3 years), toys, nappies, wipes and more!

Brand Partnerships & Sponsorship

We love being able to work with different businesses and brands. We can tailor a partnership that works for your business, while ensuring the greatest impact for the community. We have opportunities as match-funders during our fundraising campaigns and sponsorship of different parts of our business (e.g. PIPS social baby store and groups).

Fundraise for Us

From bake sales, sausage sizzles and trivia nights to morning teas and large events, we are always so grateful when groups, schools and businesses choose PIPS as their charity of choice. Fundraising for PIPS helps to cover the costs of our drop-in centre or to provide essential items like nappies, wipes and safe sleep spaces for whānau in need.

For more information on supporting PIPS, please see www.pips.co.nz.

“I really value the way the PIPS team are so friendly and make their space welcoming and non-judgemental for everyone. We all struggle and need help now and then, so to receive that and not feel ashamed when asking for help was immensely appreciated”.
